

CHICAGO IS WILD BY INHERITANCE, HE FINDS

CHICAGO, April 28.—If Chicago is wild, it's inherited. Louis Untermyer, American poet and critic found that the city was based on "wild things."

"A Hyde Park woman told me Chicago got its name from the Indian river Shee-caw-go—that means the River of the Wild Onion," said Untermyer.

"I was assured by an attorney the Indian word for Chicago river means the River of the Wild Asparagus."

HOOVER TO PUT U.S. ON TRADE FRONT

Commerce Secretary Plans New Campaign for American Products Abroad.

A fighting line for American commerce—that is the aim of Herbert Hoover, Secretary of Commerce. American industry now consists of a supply train and a general staff, according to the Secretary of Commerce. Applying these military terms to the American trade situation, the Secretary explains that American manufacturers have supplies to offer foreign nations, and they have channels of foreign trade, but they are lacking in forces at the foreign trade front to fight for world business.

The Department of Commerce in its efforts to expand the foreign trade of the United States will seek to establish a fighting front by encouraging American manufacturers to gain a foothold in the foreign lands and enter into vigorous competition for trade.

FAR EAST EXPANSION.
Establishment of American wholesale houses throughout the entire Far East is one of the plans which the Department of Commerce has under consideration for recommendation to American manufacturers. With a chain of American wholesale houses, each staffed with salesmen to cover their districts, American producers will be prepared to meet the competition of the British, the French and the Belgians, who are now getting a large slice of the Oriental trade, according to the experts of the Department of Commerce. Chains of wholesale houses throughout the entire world may be expected to follow the establishment of such houses in the Orient, it is stated.

For the purpose of creating a fighting front for American commerce, Secretary Hoover is now holding numerous conferences with the representatives of various industries, and it is expected that with the proper co-operation between Government and industry the next year may see a grand offensive for expansion of the foreign trade of the United States.

SEE "FIGHTING FRONT."
The iron and steel industry and the oil industry are the only two American industries which have as yet established what the Secretary of Commerce calls a "fighting front." But it is pointed out that the creation of foreign branches of these two industries have already shown great results and offer encouragement to other industries.

Plans are in the making for the expansion of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, and it is expected that Secretary Hoover will prevail upon one of the biggest business men in the United States to accept the post of director of this bureau to direct the efforts on the fighting front.

BRITISH DIVORCE MILL IS ACTIVE

Precedents Broken as Hundreds of Couples Seek Freedom Through Courts.

LONDON, April 29.—Precedents in English court procedure are being broken in an effort to dispose of a list of several hundred divorce cases before the Whitsuntide recess. A few days ago Lord Birkenhead heard more than twenty cases, this being the first time the lord chancellor ever sat as a divorce court judge.

Another unprecedented move to clear the courts of cases that have been long awaiting a hearing was made today, when five judges, including the lord chancellor, disposed of 102 undefended petitions, ignoring the usual Saturday court holiday. The judges worked in relays, the first of them trying twenty-two cases and the others twenty each.

When this list was finished there remained for hearing 1,650 additional cases. To expedite their handling it is intended to continue the Saturday sittings for several weeks.

TOO GAY AT FIFTY; KING EXILES HIM

Danilo, Brother-in-Law of Italian Ruler, Lived Too Convivial a Life.

By NEWTON C. PARKE.
International News Service.
PARIS, April 29.—Prince Danilo of Montenegro, once a dashing figure who was written into a popular American comic opera, has been practically barred from Italy by King Victor Emmanuel, his brother-in-law, according to word reaching here from Rome.

Though Danilo celebrates his 50th birthday in a few months, he still carries all his youthful dash and love for gay times. That's what the King of Italy objects to and he wants the prince to stay out of Italy until he gets old enough to settle down.

Prince Danilo was twenty-five and extremely good looking when his sister, the Princess Helene, married the present ruler of Italy. He loved a good time and always had it, whether in Paris, at Monte Carlo or one of the other resorts of the French and Italian Riviera.

PRESENTED BILLS TO KING.

When he visited Rome Danilo was received with all the honors due the brother of the queen. But when court affairs in his honor were all over he slipped away to hang out his own with friends of his own choice, and these little parties annoyed both the King and Queen Helene.

The King's temper soared skyward when he learned of a series of exploits that became the laughing-stock of Rome. Prince Danilo, so the story went, would gather several of his friends, spend a "big night" in an Italian place of amusement and when the bill was presented wave it away with the exclamation:

"Don't bother me with that—take it up to the palace to my brother-in-law, the King."

WON OVER KING'S SPY.

Prince Danilo moved across the Italian frontier to the French Riviera when the King voiced his displeasure, but he kept in touch with things in Italy. His royal brother-in-law wanted to keep in touch with his movements and sent an Italian secret service agent to watch him. But Danilo's ways were so captivating that he won over the King's "spy," made a bosom companion of him and even borrowed some of the expense money furnished by Victor Emmanuel.

That wasn't all. The prince suddenly decided to go into business, making a specialty of choice Italian wines and tidbits that struck the fancy of French gourmets. The Italian customs authorities heard about this, and after several months' investigation, said to have discovered that goods on whose export an embargo had been placed, found their way easily into the hands of the prince's company in France.

Some customs inspectors were dismissed at the King's order. He wrote to Danilo, advising him to keep out of Italy. The prince wrote back, hotly denying all the charges and threatening to do a lot of things to Italy if Montenegro ever gets to be a real country again and he gets on the throne.

FRANCE DENIES PENSION TO ILLEGAL OFFSPRING

PARIS, April 29.—As a means of encouraging French parents to have more children a special bill passed in parliament promises government aid to parents of large families. A Frenchman, the father of three children less than fourteen years old and still living, will receive an allowance of 300 francs per year at the birth of the fourth child. He will receive a further grant of 300 francs for every child born after the fourth. Parents subjected to income tax will not receive any grant. An attempt to accord these gratifications to illegitimate children was rejected. It being pointed out that most of these children have been taken in by the institute of public relief.

AMERICAN LEGION PUZZLES JAPANESE

Suspect Yankee Members in Tokyo of Being U. S. Military Reservists.

By DUKE N. PARRY.
International News Service.

TOKYO, April 29.—The American Legion member in Tokyo, the morning after a legion meeting, feels somewhat like the hero in a Sherlock Holmes detective story. Referred to in an aside by the Japanese clerk in the office as an "American lieutenant," looked upon with some suspicion by his servants, who perhaps know, too, that he is connected with the organization of "American soldiers," as they are known, he is in a peculiar position.

It is a fact that one American who holds a responsible position in Tokyo, a position which carries with it the impression that he may know something of the plans of Uncle Sam in the Far East, was recently away from his office for a few hours when a Japanese employed in the firm asked a comrade of this American, also identified actively with the Tokyo-Yokohama post of the American Legion: "How many Germans did he kill in France?"

Japanese, despite continued attempts at explanations, are unable to get the Americans' real meaning of the American Legion. Translated into Japanese the expression American Legion means "Gungin Dan," or "legion of military men." Going on this translation the Japanese who sees a legion member immediately takes him for an American military reservist, and, despite the fact that Americans here frequently take the trouble to explain this fact, there seems to be no way of sufficiently convincing the Japanese that the "Gungin Dan" is not a body of men with concealed arms and ammunition, ready for an attack on their hosts.

JAPS IN HAWAII.

"The American Legion," said an old American resident of Tokyo recently, "is understood in Japan much the same way that Japanese living in Hawaii are misunderstood. It is a fact that many Americans think that the Japanese in Hawaii is really a military man of Japan; that he is ready at any minute to go to war with America, and is always active in serving the cause of Japan. The Japanese suspect the Americans in the American Legion somewhat the same way, and insist on believing them military reservists."

An American Legion man, interviewed on the subject of Tokyo, recently said: "The difference between the American Legion man and the Japanese citizen is a marked one, and while that is one reason why the ignorant Japanese thinks the legion is a 'reserve' organization, it does not excuse the educated Japanese, who pretend to look upon us with so much suspicion. An American cannot be a 'reservist' by being in the legion, and it is known that America does not have the system that Japan has, and which compels the Japanese to be a real 'reservist.' Because the Japanese must be a reservist, they see military laws of the country, he feels that the American Legion is just a bit of camouflage to conceal a group of American reservists in Japan."

100,000 Seals Caught.

ST. JOHNS, NEWFOUNDLAND, April 29.—The catch of 100,000 seals was indicated with the return of three vessels of the sealing fleet. Two of the nine vessels which pursued the hunt this year are still out, but their catches have been reported by wireless.
